Good Food Media Network Releases 2019 Good Food Restaurants™ List

-Corresponding Economic Report Reveals $213.5 Million Impact
Made by Chefs' Sustainable Purchasing Practices-

DENVER (October 16, 2019) –The Good Food Media Network today released its annual Good Food 100 Restaurants list, an annual rating and economic analysis offering insight into the business and purchasing practices of chefs and restaurants and their commitment to good food and sustainable sourcing.

"Our goal is to promote transparency and empower people to be aware of where their food is coming from while recognizing the chefs and restaurants who are consciously committed to building a better food system. Every menu choice and good food purchase that chefs and restaurants make affects each link in our food chain as well as state, regional and national economies," said Sara Brito, co-founder and president, Good Food Media Network. "We are proud of the participating 2019 chefs and restaurants who are leading the way with transparency and catalyzing change among their colleagues and guests."

Key findings of the economic impact analysis include:

Overall Impact

- Overall domestic food purchases for the participating 137 restaurants totaled $100.7 million.
- Restaurants reported spending $66.3 million on domestic good food, which translates to a $213.5 million economic impact on the national good food economy, indicating that every dollar spent on good food purchases had triple the impact on the local, state and national economies.
- The 137 responding restaurants represented every region of the United States with Colorado and California leading the good food movement with the most participating restaurants.

National Good Food Purchases

- The 137 participating restaurants reported 67% of national food purchases were good food purchases. The percentage of good food purchases was greatest for participating Specialty Grocer/Lunch Counter and Other (Catering, Quick Service, and Meal Delivery Service) restaurants with 95% each, followed by Fine Dining restaurants (88%) and Fast Casual (86%).
- Nationally, restaurants reported the greatest percentage of good food purchases in the Fish and Seafood (85%) and the Meat and Poultry (83%) segments.

Regional Good Food Purchases

- Compared to total purchases, a greater percentage of regional purchases were good food purchases (89%), with all restaurant types except for Food Service reporting over 90% of total purchases as good food purchases. Regionally, restaurants reported the greatest percentage of good food purchases in the Fish and Seafood (100%) and the Meat and Poultry (97%) segments.
- Regions that reported the highest percentage of good food purchases included the Plains region (92%) and the New England region (88%), with the Great Lakes region only reporting 38%.

Business and Labor Practices

- Nearly every responding restaurant reported recycling (94%), and eco-friendly paper products and carryout containers (93%) were a part of their sustainable practices.
- Three out of four restaurants reported composting, using eco-friendly cleaning supplies, using CFL or LED lighting and tracking food waste.
- Over 78% of responding restaurants reported providing access to health insurance to employees, some of which exclusively offer benefits to management.
- 87% of the responding restaurants have an official sexual harassment policy is in place.

Corresponding with the economic analysis is the Good Food 100 Restaurants list, carefully curated based on the quantitative measurement of participating restaurants' self-reported annual food purchasing data. Restaurants are rated with two to six links—symbolizing links in the food chain—based on the percent of total good food purchases. These purchases support state, regional and national good food producers and purveyors.

"Be it food waste, climate change, worker welfare, our food system needs an overhaul starting from production all the way to consumption. The time to act is now and we are proud to be a part of this cultural and culinary conversation," added Brito.

The Good Food 100 Restaurants analysis was conducted by the Business Research Division (BRD) of the Leeds School of Business at the University of Colorado Boulder and verified by NSF. The 2019 Good Food 100 list was published with the support of the James Beard Foundation, the 2019 featured non-profit partner.

based on the quantitative measurement of chefs' sourcing data, the Good Food 100 spotlights those that are building a better food system by supporting every link of the food chain: the environment; plants and animals; farmers, ranchers and fisherman; purveyors; restaurants; and eaters. The Good Food 100 is produced and published by the Good Food Media Network, a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization dedicated to educating eaters by cultivating a conversation and community around the people and businesses changing the food system for good.
