Good Food 100 Restaurants™ Launches Virtual Dinner Conversation Series Eat. Drink. Think. #SaveGoodFood

Join chefs Rick Bayless, Caroline Glover, Mike Lata, Renee Erickson and more, along with farmers and purveyors for conversations on how to save good food in a post-COVID-19 world

DENVER (May 20, 2020) – Today, Good Food Media Network announced the launch of its virtual June dinner series Eat. Drink. Think. #SaveGoodFood. Moderated by Good Food Media Network co-founder and president Sara Brito, the series brings together chefs featured on the Good Food 100 Restaurants list, along with farmers and purveyors from the Good Food Farmers, Producers & Purveyors Guide, for thematic conversations on how to save good food in a post-COVID-19 world.

"It's crucial to support the farmers, producers, and purveyors who help bring good food to the table. Even if we can't be together in-person, we can still connect and have critical conversations about how to save good food in a post-COVID 19 world," said Brito. "We invite you to order delivery or takeout from your local Good Food 100 Restaurants, and join us around the virtual dinner table."

Participants are encouraged to support their local Good Food 100 Restaurants during each of the conversations by purchasing take out or delivery. A few generous Good Food Media Network donors have offered to match sales at featured chefs' restaurants on each of these days.

About Good Food 100 Restaurants

The Good Food 100 Restaurants™ is an annual list of restaurants that educates eaters and celebrates restaurants for being transparent with their business and purchasing practices. Carefully curated based on the quantitative measurement of chefs' sourcing data, the Good Food 100 spotlights those that are building a better food system by supporting every link of the food chain: the environment; plants and animals; farmers, ranchers and fisherman; purveyors; restaurants; and eaters. The Good Food 100 is produced and published by the Good Food Media Network, a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization dedicated to educating eaters by cultivating a conversation and community around the people and businesses changing the food system for good.
